Real Estate Investment Finance Partners With Beddown To Support Australia's Homeless

REIF Vows To Donate To Those In Need Every Time A Client Acquires Property & Finance

Brisbane, QLD: REIF today announced a new partnership with Beddown. This partnership will raise awareness and donations for the homeless population in Australia. Every time REIF helps a client with their finance and property needs, they will donate funds to Beddown. REIF have also pledged their commitment to volunteer at future pop-up events run by Beddown.

"I am extremely pleased that I can get the team at REIF onboard to support this amazing initiative," says David Chehade, CEO and Founder at REIF. "More needs to be done to acknowledge the 8,000 people sleeping rough around the country every night."

"Great to meet with Real Estate Investment Finance to talk about the Beddown journey" says Norm McGillivray, Founder at Beddown. "We are excited to see where this takes us both. Thank you all."

The benefits of this new partnership include.

- For every new property that a client acquires through REIF a donation will be made to Beddown
- Each time a we support a client with a new loan product, REIF will make a donation to Beddown
- The team at REIF pledge to dedicate their time and resources to support Beddown at future pop-up events

About Real Estate Investment Finance (REIF):

REIF are the fastest growing property and finance organisation in the country and the number one for all the services that we provide. We have access to the largest property data base in Australia. We provide a proficient beginning to end service and are servicing home buyers, investors and clients in need of finance.

About Beddown:

Beddown is an organisation that take spaces which are used throughout the day, yet vacant at night to provide pop-up accommodation to ensure the homeless have a safe space to sleep. They aim to restore health, dignity and respect for their guests with safe, secure and comfortable spaces. Beddown is a non-for-profit organisation that works with other charitable organisations who align their mission.
